

Religious Institutions

The Florida 1005.06(1)(f) Statute of the FLDOE (Florida Department of Education) establishes that religious institutions are exempt from the jurisdiction of the Commission for Independent Education.

Religious institutions that meet the requirements outlined in Section 1005.06(1)(f) of the Florida Statutes and Rule 6E-5.001 of the Florida Administrative Code are exempt from the Commission's oversight and are not required to obtain licensure from the FLDOE.

However, these institutions remain supported and regulated by the Florida International Religious Educational Regulatory Forum (FIRERF). FIRERF aims to address international legislative challenges and advocate for the rights of institutions recognized by this body, ensuring their continued operation and alignment with applicable standards.

The institutions listed below have submitted a document stating that they meet all requirements established by Florida Statutes for religious institutions. In addition, they have received a letter of authorization issued by this auditing agency accrediting their commitment as a religious educational institution.
